

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA
ASHEVILLE DIVISION

CIVIL NO. 1:05CV50
(1:00CR6-2)

AUNDRA LOGAN,

Petitioner,

Vs.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Respondent.

ORDER OF DISMISSAL

THIS MATTER is before the Court on the Petitioner's motion to vacate, set aside, or correct sentence pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255. No response is necessary from the government.

A prisoner in federal custody may attack his conviction and sentence on the grounds that it is in violation of the Constitution or United States law, was imposed without jurisdiction, exceeds the maximum penalty, or is otherwise subject to collateral attack. 28 U.S.C. § 2255. However,

[i]f it plainly appears from the face of the motion and any annexed exhibits and the prior proceedings in the case that the movant is not entitled to relief in the district court, the judge shall make an order for its summary dismissal and cause the movant to be notified.

Rule 4, Rules Governing Section 2255 Proceedings for the United States District Courts.

On February 10, 2000, the Petitioner and nine co-Defendants were charged with conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute cocaine base; the Petitioner was also charged with one count of possession with intent to distribute cocaine base. Bill of Indictment, filed February 10, 2000. On April 19, 2000, the Petitioner entered a plea of guilty to the conspiracy charge pursuant to a plea agreement with the Government, and on January 5, 2001, the undersigned sentenced the Petitioner to a term of 188 months of imprisonment. Judgment in a Criminal Case, filed January 19, 2001. The Petitioner did not file an appeal of his conviction and/or sentence. Therefore, the Petitioner's conviction became final on January 29, 2001.¹ United States v. Wilson*, 256 F.3d 217, 221 (4th Cir. 2001) (citing Kapral v. United States, 166 F.3d 565, 577 (3d Cir. 1999)); United States v. Walker, 194 F.3d 1307 (table), 1999 WL 760237 (4th ¹On the Government's motion, the Court reduced the Petitioner's sentence to 164 months by Order filed February 12, 2002. Assuming arguendo this date is used to determine when the Petitioner's conviction became final, his motion, in any event, is untimely.

Cir. 1999) (citing Adams v. United States, 173 F.3d 1339, 1343 n.2 (11th Cir. 1999)). Petitioner signed his § 2255 motion on February 25, 2005, and same was filed in this Court on February 28, 2005.

Prior to the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act (AEDPA), a prisoner possessed virtually unlimited amounts of time to file a first petition for collateral review under 28 U.S.C. §§ 2254 and 2255. In an attempt to curb the protracted nature of such litigation, Congress established a one-year period of limitations. . . . In relevant part, the AEDPA amended § 2255 by adding the following language:

A 1-year period of limitation shall apply to a motion under this section. The limitation period shall run from the latest of -

- (1) the date on which the judgment of conviction becomes final;

We are left with the question of when a judgment is to be considered final. The Supreme Court has addressed the question of finality in the context of retroactivity. The Court defined a conviction as being final when "a judgment of conviction has been rendered, the availability of appeal exhausted, and the time for a petition for certiorari elapsed or a petition for certiorari finally denied."

Gendron v. United States*, 154 F.3d 672, 673-74 (7th Cir. 1998) (quoting Griffith v. Kentucky*, 479 U.S. 314, 321 n.6 (1987)). Because the motion was filed some four years and one month after the Petitioner's conviction became final, the undersigned, therefore, concludes this motion is untimely filed. Id.

Even if this petition was timely, the Petitioner's arguments are without merit. The Petitioner seeks relief based on the Supreme Court decisions in Apprendi v. New Jersey, 530 U.S. 466 (2000), Blakely v. Washington, 542 U.S. 296 (2004), United States v. Booker, 125 S. Ct. 738 (2005), and its companion case United States v. Fanfan.

In Blakely, the Supreme Court held that Washington State's statutory sentencing scheme violated Apprendi because the sentencing court used aggravating factors, to which the defendant had not stipulated in his plea agreement, to enhance the defendant's sentence above the sentencing guideline range. However, Blakely does not apply retroactively to convictions that were final at the time it was decided. United States v. Price*, 400 F.3d 844 (10th Cir. 2005); Varela v. United States, 400 F.3d 864 (11th Cir. 2005); Cooper-Smith v. Palmateer, 397 F.3d 1236 (9th Cir. 2005); Green v. United States, 397 F.3d 101, 103 (2d Cir. 2005); United States v. Marshall, 117 Fed. Appx. 269, 270 (4th Cir. 2004).

As for Apprendi, the Supreme Court there held that other than a prior conviction, any fact that increases the penalty for a crime beyond the prescribed statutory maximum must be submitted to the jury and proved beyond a reasonable doubt. However, the Fourth Circuit has held that Apprendi may not be applied retroactively to cases on collateral review.

San-Miguel v. Dove*, 291 F.3d 257 (4th Cir. 2002). Such is the case here.

Like Apprendi and Blakely, every circuit court which has addressed the issue of whether or not the ruling in Booker is retroactive to cases on collateral review has determined that it is not. See, Green, supra;

McReynolds v. United States*, 397 F.3d 479, 481 (7th Cir. 2005) (“We conclude, then, that Booker does not apply retroactively to criminal cases that became final before its release on January 12, 2005.”); In re Anderson*, 396 F.3d 1336, 1339 (11th Cir. 2005); United States v. Johnson*, 2005 WL 2705818, *1, n.2 (4th Cir. 2005).

IT IS, THEREFORE, ORDERED that the Petitioner’s motion to vacate, set aside, or correct sentence is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.
